Meeting at the Baptist Church.
The monthly business meeting at the Baptist church will be held to night. The male members especially are earnestly requested to be present. A short devotional meeting will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

"We resume our seats on the train," joined by Vice-President Charles G. Eddy, the efficient manager of this extensive system of railway, which is to do for Virginia what the Pennsylvania road has done to develop Pennsylvania. Mr. Eddy is an interesting man to meet and full of interesting projects. Mr. old friend Charles V. Goddard, a New Hampshire boy, a New York merchant, who with his wife is a guest of Mr. Eddy, came with him, and the train steamed along through this booming country, alive with thrift and prosperity on every side. We make a brief tarry at Wytheville, where a few of the party took a hasty lunch, and later in the day, many others wished they had, also. We reach Bristol at 4 p. m. Trains, also, join us at Roanoke, and he provided a lively wide-awake newspaper man.
